HEROD WINS DERBY FOR HEM STABLE

HALF LENGTH VERDICT OVER ROSE-QUEEN

ABLE AMAZON SETS NEW MARK

(By "Rapier")

"I have not seen Herod in training, but I understand that he is in a class above the others, which are considered very indifferent. Herod should do well, if all I have heard is true, more than that I cannot say," Sir Philip Sassoon told me this morning, before the tiffin interval, when questioned regarding his chances of winning the Derby.

Mr. Li Shiu-pang, owner of Soldier of Honour, was doubtful whether his entry would last the distance. He thought Herod's chances were very good, and named King's Jubilee and Mistake Bay as the probable placed ponies. Rose-Queen, he said, was a very good outsider.

MR. FROST'S FOUR WINS

An exceptionally large crowd was present for the first race and saw the field of 22 ponies get away to a good start. Mr. Needa sent Lucky Strike, the favourite, into the lead and was closely followed by High West and Seventeenth of September (Mr. Frost). Coming into the home stretch Mr. Frost's mount jumped into the lead to win by half a length, in spite of Lucky Strike's comeback effort. Seventeenth of September, a

Lindberghs Engage Scottish Girl As Nurse For John

Englewood, New Jersey. It is understood that Miss Betty Gow, previous nurse of the murdered Lindbergh baby, who gave evidence in the Hauptmann trial and who sailed for Scotland last Friday, will return in a few weeks to become nurse to the Lindberghs' son John.—Reuter.

3,000 ITALIAN TROOPS BOUND FOR SOMALILAND

EMBARKATION AT MESSINA

YOUNG MEN ENLISTING

Messina, To-day. Three thousand troops, consisting of three battalions of militia and the Third Regiment of the Peloritana Division sail to-day for Eritrea, Somaliland. Their equipment is already aboard the transport Conte Biancamano, which is on its way from Naples. Meanwhile more young men are still arriving by train.—Reuter.

WEATHER FORECAST

The anticyclone over China and Manchuria has weakened, pressure remaining highest over the Lower Yangtze Valley. The local forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning, was north-east winds, moderate clear.

Local Shipping Claim

A claim of $2,503.19 for repairs and costs incurred in January, 1932, has been lodged against the owners of the s.s. Asia, provisionally known as the "Tos-Maru", by the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company, Limited. The owners of the s.s. Shin Chih are also claiming compensation for salvage and repairs, which took place on January 13, 14, and 15, the days on which the Shin Chih was engaged in towing in the Asia.

NOTHING WRONG WITH THE MACHINE

PILOT TRAPPED BETWEEN ROCKY CRAGS AT 2,000 FEET

Messina, To-day. The nine coffins of the victims of the flying-boat disaster, when the Short-Singapore No. K3595, one of the squadron on its way to Singapore, crashed into a hillside near Messina, were embarked yesterday on H.M.S. Durban, which left at 3.30 p.m., for Malta, after full military honours had been rendered by men of the English and Italian Navy.

HOLLAND SWEEP BY STORM

Five Dead And Many Injured

Amsterdam, To-day.

Three people were drowned, two others killed and several were seriously injured in accidents during a heavy storm which swept Holland during the week-end.

Considerable damage is reported from all districts, and no ships were able to leave port.—Reuter.

PRESIDENT OF PORTUGAL

General Carmona's Big Majority

Lisbon, To-day.

General Antonio Carmona has been re-elected President of Portugal by a huge majority.—Reuter.

Meanwhile a report on the disaster has been submitted to the Air Ministry by Squadron Leader Nairn. They refused to disclose details, but it is reliably learned, firstly, that nothing was wrong with the machine; secondly, it crashed on the hillside at 100 miles an hour; thirdly the occupants were instantly killed by the impact before being burnt.

It appears that the pilot turned the machine toward the sea, of which he may have caught a glimpse in the mist, but was trapped between rocky crags at a height of 2,000 feet.—Reuter.

SAAR CHANGE-OVER

New Customs Houses Under Germans

Saarbrücken, Today. The Saar was yesterday formally incorporated within the German Customs frontier. French officials left their posts and Germans took possession of the new Customs houses.—Reuter.

It took Henrietta Dwyer Cough, daughter of a New York jeweller, only 30 minutes to conclude that she had made a mistake by marrying John H. Cough, son of a Yankee N.Y. Police chief. She is now asking the court in Chicago, where the ceremony was performed, to annul the marriage.

NOVEL-LIKE STORY OF HIGH TREASON

FLASHLIGHT AND CAMERA IN SOCIETY CIRCLES

DAUGHTERS OF ARMY OFFICERS IN ESPIONAGE NET

Berlin, To-day.

Some quarters predict that Baroness Von Berg and Frau Von Natzner, who, together with a Polish officer, Baron Sosnowski, were accused in the People's Court of high treason of selling German mobilisation plans to a foreign Power, will be executed.

It is alleged that the methods used by the spies read like a novel. It appears that the Baroness was desperately in love with the handsome, dashing, Baron Sosnowski, who is a born gambler and a daring horseman, and became a willing accomplice to his plans.

She weaved a net of espionage in society circles and invited girls, chiefly daughters of high army officers, and employees of the Reichswehr Ministry, to sumptuous parties. Here she supplied them with liquor and allegedly allowed them to assume compromising positions with young men and then got to work with a flashlight and a camera, after which she easily enlisted their aid.

BRITAIN'S SAFEGUARD AGAINST GAS

AERIAL ATTACK TO BE COMBATTED

COMPLETE PLANS TO BE ISSUED SHORTLY

London, To-day.

The News and Chronicle states that complete plans to protect civilians against gas attacks from the air are being issued shortly by the Committee of Imperial Defence.

A vast organisation has been planned in which thousands of doctors, police and firemen, and hundreds of thousands of volunteers will be enrolled. The scheme is said to include a system of alarms, the isolation of infected areas, the protection of food and water supplies, anti-infection training for school children, and the organisation of special ambulance and transport services. The Chronicle adds that there will be no building of vast dugouts nor a general issue of gas-masks but the possibility of marketing a cheap mask will be considered.—Reuter.

ANTI-JAPANESE MOVEMENT

Impedes Ultimate Rapprochement

Shanghai, To-day.

Any ultimate Sino-Japanese rapprochement is impossible unless the anti-Japanese movement in China is dropped.

This statement, made by Major-General Doihara on his arrival in Shanghai from Tientsin yesterday, is featured by the press to-day. General Doihara, said that a lasting peace in the Far East was impossible unless China ceased to regard Japan as her potential enemy and tried to restore Sino-Japanese relations back to normal.—Reuter.

Frau Von Natzner was another accomplice of Sosnowski.—Reuter. A later message stated that it was officially announced yesterday that a statement would be issued about the spy trial to-day and that von Berg and Frau Natzner would be executed just before the issue of the statement, unless Reichsfuehrer Hitler exercises his prerogative of mercy.—Reuter.

"HOT GOSPELLER" IN SHANGHAI

"Gigantic" Meetings Arranged

FEW WANT SOULS SAVED

Mrs. Aimee McPherson, the "Hot Gospeller," has arranged four "gigantic" meetings in the Hai Alai auditorium, starting on Wednesday. Meanwhile she is conducting daily radio broadcasts. She spoke yesterday to a crowded meeting at the Capitol theatre, but only a few hands were raised when she asked who wanted their souls saved.—Reuter.

BRIGADIER GENERAL PASSES

HON. JOHN JOSEPH BYRON

ADVENTUROUS LIFE

Capetown, To-day. The death has occurred of Brigadier General the Honourable John Joseph Byron, C.M.G., D.S.O., Member of the Union Parliament.—Reuter. The late Brigadier General Byron had an adventurous life. He served throughout the South African War, was for some time A.D.C. to Lord Roberts, was present at Gera's surrender at Paardeberg, and was severely wounded at the battle of Magersfontein. He held various high appointments in the Australian military forces between 1896 and 1909, and was attached with the American army in the Philippines War. He

TO MAKE LIFE EASIER

London.

To make life easier on these cold, dark mornings, a new and improved version of the electric "call you and make your tea" outfit has been evolved.

This consists of an oak or mahogany tray, a clock surmounted by a pretty shaded lamp, kettle, teapot, milk jug, and two cups and saucers—all matching the lamp shade.

The clock is set to whatever time you wish to be called, and at that hour a discreet buzzer goes off, the lamp lights, the kettle boils, powers itself into the teapot, and there is the tea all ready and waiting!

SPRING MILLINERY FROM PARIS

Taffeta For The More Dressing Occasions

IRREGULAR SHAPES

Paris. We are going to be surprised when we see our new hats. Gone are the exaggerated high crowns of the autumn, the uninteresting round shapes which had a vogue at the end of last year. In their place will be more than a dozen utterly new and utterly different hats.

The most important point to be noted in nearly all the spring models is their forward tendency. Either the brim or the trimming gives you the impression that they are about to shoot forward over the nose.

First comes the shovel hat, with a brim wider in front than the back. A 2-inch width of this brim is abruptly turned up at the edge. And, like most of the new spring models, this has an oval crown, which is pressed to give a square effect at the top. You can have it in any material you like—taffeta, straw, pique, gros-grain.

Taffeta Is Smart

Choose a taffeta hat, much piped and shirred, for dressy occasions, and gros-grain for your morning suit, and you will do very well. An attractive new taffeta shovel hat shown was a Suzy model in pigeon's throat green—one of the prettiest spring colours yet seen.

A new tummy crown on brimmed hats—a style for the older woman, was also shown.

But women of almost any age will be able to wear, with a little practice, the small oval toques or caps.

These are the models which are brought down over the eyes and have the new oval shape which will be a feature of the spring millinery. Louise Bourbon's are especially novel, for the front is higher than the back and has a slightly forward tilted effect. Even her straw hats have the same movement, with crowns round in front, pointed at the back, or squarish, and brims which are cut into irregular shapes.

THE ASTRINGENT EFFECT OF WIND

"FEED YOUR FACE" AS PREVENTIVE

SPECIALISTS who recommend a powder foundation without cream for daytime use, and the sparing application of skin food at night, tell their clients to "feed their faces" in order to combat the astringent effect of wind and the drying and scorching heat of big fires and central heating.

Women should make up their minds either to give up the use of water on their faces, and not more than once a day on their hands and arms, or to invest in a water softener. It is perfectly possible to keep the skin of the face clean without water. Milk is an effective substitute, and this has been made into a liquid milk soap without soda, chalk or inferior fat, by one beauty authority. A few drops of this on the skin of the face will cleanse it completely. This in the morning should be followed by a cream powder foundation and a powder that is also a skin food and will not dry the skin.

Here is an evening gown that features schoolgirl modesty yet has an unexplainable sophistication that is ultra-smart. It is of grey satin with a corsage of red tulips at the base of the décolletage in back. Clips of rhinestones and rubies carry out the colour contrast in a subtle manner. Frances Drake, screen actress, is the model.

CURING THE SKIN NUISANCES

The tiresome skin nuisances are blackheads and other kindred "spots." The root cause of most of these is perhaps often faulty diet; it may be lack of fresh air due to ill-ventilated rooms, but mostly it is diet.

Begin curing any "spots" by substituting a glass of orange or lemon water for your early cup of tea. Only allow meat to figure on your diet once a day but have plenty of cheese and butter.

FANCY-WEAVE LINENS

Fancy-weave linens are among the important fabrics for this coming spring.

A COMPLEXION BEAUTIFIER

Milk Beats Any Face Cream Invented

Cow's milk applied both internally and externally was proved as a complexion beautifier many thousands of years ago. A glass taken first thing in the morning and any time between meals (not with them) helps to bring forth roses and the much desired "bloom." As a cleanser for the skin it beats any face cream invented... Add a drop or two of lemon to make it curdle and rub it onto the face, removing with a soft cloth. Sour milk, patted on at night, helps to tighten up a sagging face, and has a certain whitening effect. It should not be used on a very dry skin.

WHEN THE BLONDE CHOOSES CLOTHES

COLOURS ARE OF THE PRIME IMPORTANCE

IN choosing clothes, the blonde must be especially careful about colours.

Many work by rule of contrast, on the theory that dark (blue, green or black) backgrounds make their pale colouring seem even more delicate.

This is in idea that really works. For blondes with blue, green or grey eyes, cool greyish colours—blues, greens and violets—are more becoming than the warm brownish tones.

But the brown-eyed, fair people whose skins are usually inclined to the brunette tone look best in any of the range of browns.

Vivid golden haired blondes with colour can wear brilliant shades, such as red and bright blue, but if you are pale and thin, they are too strong a dose. For you, colours should have depth, but no harshness. Soft shades of rose are examples of the colours you can wear.

WORKED TRIMMINGS

There are all sorts of queer wooden and wool worked trimmings, cords and edgings which may be bought. Belts of leather and steel, metal fantasies, and coloured composition buckles and buttons, if cleverly introduced, can give a way look to old hats, sweaters, blouses and coats. The clever woman will generally find a good use for any dress detail, that is really fresh and good of its kind.

A typical costume of wool and silk seen where the climate is mild. Frances Drake, film actress, wears the outfit which consists of a straight skirt of black tulle, a flaring tunic of stitched taffeta and a black felt alpine hat with knotted velvet.

SENTIMENT IS A LUXURY

Women Through Women Eyes

Sentiment is a luxury reserved for leisured women. According to the women writers of new novels quoted here, we moderns are too busy to indulge in it.

Joan Sutherland in "One Man's Journey" (Cassell, 7s. 6d.).

"Oh—love! . . . She cannot afford the luxury of being sentimental." Ursula Parrott in "The Tumult and the Shouting" (Cassell, 7s. 6d.). "She was used enough to flippant, casual people. It was in the manner of her generation to be that; it was their pose. . . . Michael's generation sentimentalises death too much, as they sentimentalise everything else. . . . all that generation had steadfastness of purpose and a kind of continuity. We all just rush about from one thing to another."

Sarah Salt in "Change Partners" (Gollancz, 7s. 6d.).

"Cold, living to a formula and pretending to be really intelligent. What was wrong with their generation? They seemed to have no love or tenderness."

A BLESSING TO HOUSEWIVES

The new wire baskets for storing fruit will prove a blessing to housewives who are larger-than-life. They are made of specially prepared metal which will keep cool in any room.

BRIDGE NOTES

Bidding To Stop A Lead

by Ely Culbertson.

Good, had and indifferent players alike have for the past few years indulged in the slightly sane pastime of bidding a worthless suit to stop the lead of that suit against an eventual three notrump contract. Naturally, an alert defensive player is always aware of the possibility that his opponents' bids (particularly in minor suits) may not be entirely honest, and accordingly these psychic bids frequently prove a boomerang.

On to-day's hand the South player arbitrarily decided that he and his partner could make three notrump if a certain opening lead were stopped. He further decided, however, that the mere fact that he opened the bidding with one of those suits would not prevent either of his opponents from opening it if they had any desirable holding in it. He accordingly adopted the most unusual procedure of not only rebidding a worthless doubleton suit, but making a jump rebid.

1—As mentioned above, South decided that his hand offered a very fine chance for a game at notrump only assuming his partner held some scattered strength, if the opponents could be stopped from opening their best suit. From South's own hand the only really dangerous suit seemed to be the club suit, and South therefore opened the bidding with one club. He realised of course, that the chances of his partner's passing to one club were very remote. The correct response.

2—South is now more certain than ever that there is a game in notrump without a club lead. Knowing that his partner will take a jump rebid in the same suit as practically a force, he decides to take added precautions against the club suit's being opened. South knows that even if his partner does not bid three notrump as he hopes, he, South, can always return to diamonds over four or five clubs. Although North has a pretty weak hand he decides to respect his partner's semi-force. He naturally makes the minimum response of three notrump.

3—East, of course, had a natural opening lead available to him of his fourth-best club. He might have made this lead even despite South's opening club bid, knowing that the South player quite frequently took great liberties in bidding minor suits. However, the jump rebid in clubs took East in completely, and he made the waiting lead of the eight of spades. Obviously, with any opening but a club there are nine cold tricks for North and South at notrump, and thus with the spade opening North and South made their game.

4—Call it what you will—highway robbery or good bridge—at any rate it worked in this instance. Another time, this type of bidding might get the South player into considerable trouble.

FRANCE LEADS WORLD IN WINE-GROWING

France is the largest wine-producing country in the world. A thousand million gallons a year is the average, and there are a million and a half vineyard proprietors in that country. Italy comes next—but this seems to be the only country where the vine is not a great deal of port business.

Cinema Notes

"BULLDOG DRUMMOND STRIKES BACK"—KING'S THEATRE

The film version of Sapper's story of Captain Drummond and his faithful band of young followers is being shown at the King's Theatre in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," featuring Ronald Colman in the leading role.

As Captain Drummond, Colman lives through 12 nerve-racking hours in fog-bound London, for which an extremely pretty girl, a telegram and Oriental Prince are largely responsible. Charles Butterworth as Algy lends his assistance during this period in proper droll Butterworth fashion, with just that precious touch of ineffable despair, providing many a hearty laugh, ably assisted by his wife Gwen, as played by Una Merkel. Warner Oland, the Oriental Prince, is his usual sinister self, and Loretta Young the damsel in distress, looking as lovely as ever, is the reason for all the excitement. C. Aubrey Smith as an Inspector of Scotland Yard gives a fine performance.

Arthur Hohl, Kathleen Burke, Ethel Griffies, Mischa Auer and Halliwell Hobbes are also prominently cast.

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

Columbia's musical romance, "One Night of Love," featuring the famous opera singer and beauty, Grace Moore, is one of the best musicals produced in the Colony.

Miss Moore enchants both as actress and singer, while the Italian Count, Tullio Carminati, is superb as the teacher, and Lyle Talbot, Luis Alberni, Jessie Ralph, and Mona Barrie offer delightful character studies.

The story tells of a young girl who is heard singing in a cheap cafe by Guilio Monteverdi (Tullio Carminati), the greatest teacher of singing in Europe. He offers to train her for opera—on one condition—that she does not fall in love with him. The inevitable happens: the girl falls madly in love with her master, but for the sake of her career dare not mention it.

The climax in which Miss Moore sings "One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly" to the man who has taught her everything, and whose inspiration helps her on her great occasion, is one of the most poignant beautiful endings ever seen in a film.

"THE DUDE RANGER"—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

Zane Grey, the noted writer of western stories, again gives to the screen another of his thrilling sagas of the Arizona cattle lands, "The Dude Ranger," now at the Alhambra Theatre.

The film tells the story of Ernest Selby, a sturdy young Westerner, who comes to Arizona to claim a ranch inherited from his uncle. Before he has an opportunity to make his identity known to the ranch manager, his suspicions are aroused by the disappearance of several hundred head of cattle.

Mistaken for a cowboy in search of a job, he decides to masquerade in this role until he has cleared up the misadventure of the ranch. In the meanwhile he discovers another reason to extend his stay, in the person of the ranch manager's daughter.

This imperious charmer is played by Irene Hervey, a fascinating young newcomer to films. Before the picture reaches its whirlwind conclusion, these two have found romance and have passed through several breath-taking adventures.

Other important members of the cast are Henry Hall, Leroy Mason, Sid Saylor, Alma Chester and Lloyd Ingraham.

The "fan dancers" have migrated to where you would expect to find them at this season of year, to warmer climes. A dozen of them were seen in action at one time in this outdoor programme at Miami Beach. Here are three of them.

THE MYSTERY OF THE MERCERS

City Company That Dates Back To 1172

DICK WHITTINGTON A MEMBER

It was Richard II who gave a Charter to the Wardens and Company of St. Thomas the Mercers of the City of London in 1393, but for over 200 years before that, the Mercers' Company had been in existence. Records go back to at least 1172, and in 1214 a Mercer was Mayor of London.

Associated with the trading company known as the Brothers of St. Thomas a Becket, Mercers travelled to Antwerp in 1293, and helped in the secure laying of the foundations of the City's foreign trade.

Gilbert Becket, father of Thomas a Becket, was a Mercer, and had his shop near the entrance to the present hall.

Royal Guests.
Dick Whittington, Lord Mayor of London, was a Mercer, and others almost as famous have been Dean Colet of St. Paul's, friend of Erasmus and founder of St. Paul's School, Sir Geoffrey Boleyn, Lord Mayor in 1451, and father of Anne Boleyn. She and King Henry VIII. attended several banquets given by the Mercers' Company.

Sir Thomas Gresham (1519-1579), founder of the Royal Exchange and Gresham College, was also a Mercer, and a contemporary portrait of him by Antonio More hangs above the mantelpiece in the Court Room.

It is in this Court Room, panelled throughout in oak, with six doors but no windows, that the Joint Grand Gresham Committee meet. Under the will of Sir Thomas Gresham this committee manage the Royal Exchange and Gresham College.

"STAMBOUL QUEST"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

"Stamboul Quest," a tale of international espionage, featuring Myrna Loy and George Brent, is the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release at the Majestic Theatre.

As Fraulein Doktor, whose existence is known to only one man, Myrna Loy sets out to trap the Turkish general, Ali Bey, who is suspected of selling military secrets to the enemy. Before she accomplishes her mission in the Dardanelles, however, she is continually hounded by a love for a reckless young American.

"TROUBLE"—STAR THEATRE

Inimitable Sydney Howard comes to the Star Theatre in a hilarious comedy entitled "Trouble," a film of adventure on board a pleasure boat.

Sydney Howard succeeds in exploiting his quality, lugubrious humour as Hollebone, and finds an excellent foil in George Turner as Nobby. Supporting characters are George Curzon, Dorothy Robinson, Wally Patch, Abraham Sofaer, and Muriel Aik.

USE OF RADIUM IN CANCER

Experiments During Three Years

PRELIMINARY REPORT GIVES HOPEFUL OUTLOOK

The preliminary report on radium treatment in cancer of certain sites, published by the National Radium Commission, gives some extremely interesting figures. They relate primarily to the three types of cancer in which the results of radium, by general consent, have hitherto been found the most promising, namely, cancer of the breast, the womb, and the tongue and the mouth.

Although the Commission has, rightly, decided that no reasonable estimate of the permanent value of radium treatment ought to be made until enough cases have been accurately observed for five years, the present preliminary report deals with considerable groups observed for three years.

A group of 557 cases of cancer of the breast was divided into three groups according to the severity and distribution of the cancer. These were treated either by radium alone or by radium in conjunction with surgical removal and deep X-ray therapy.

Promising Results.
Of the cases in which the breast alone was involved there was a 64 per cent. survival rate at the end of three years, in those with secondary gland infection a 39 per cent. survival rate, and in those with invasion of neighbouring structures a 24 per cent. survival rate.

Of cases of cancer of the neck or entrance of the womb, out of a group of 590 cases in all stages treated by radium, there was a 40 per cent. survival rate at the end of three years in the less advanced cases, and a 39 per cent. survival rate for all cases, as compared with a 10 per cent. survival rate for untreated cancer of this site.

Out of a group of 822 cases of cancer of the tongue there was a survival rate of 40 per cent. at the end of three years in the earlier cases, and including the more advanced cases a total survival rate of 16 per cent.

GOLD MINE IN MATTRESS

Mrs. Albert Loop of Greensburg, Pennsylvania, was annoyed when, making up a bed in her farm home, she discovered a lump that refused to disappear no matter how hard she pounded it. Getting her scissors, she slit the mattress and discovered a little bag containing several hundred dollars in gold coins. With the aid of her husband she took the mattress apart. They found almost $1,000 in gold and currency that was issued 50 years ago. The mattress formerly belonged to Mr. Loop's father.

500,000 ZOO VISITORS

During 1934, the Zoo had nearly 100,000 more visitors than in 1933, while Whipsnade also had a good financial year. The Zoological Park had over 500,000 visitors in the course of the year compared with 438,000 during the previous year.

HEROD WINS DERBY FOR HEM STABLE

GOVERNOR ARRIVES
His Excellency the Governor arrived after this race, in time to see Julius Caesar go out in the first section of the Perth Plate.

Bagi Umpat was left at the post when the other nine ponies got away to a flying start, and was consequently never in the running. The Maori led at the Rock, but Southern Cross, the favourite, was coming up well with Mount Pilatus on his heels. Southern Cross took the lead in the home straight, and won fairly convincingly from Mount Pilatus, which was hotly challenged by Snowy River in a hard-fought finish.

FAVOURITE LEFT
Diogenes, the favourite, again gave trouble at the gate. In the Tyro Stakes and was left badly. Pontiac Bay set the pace with High Honour and Ythan in challenging positions. In a thrilling finish the Dunbar entry just held his own with his two rivals in the same positions, not more than a length behind. This was Mr. Frost's second win in three races.

Some surprise was occasioned when it was seen that Mr. Dunbar's Liberty Bay was being sent out in the Victoria Stakes and not in the Challenge Cup, which he has won for the past two years. Mr. Frost made no mistake whatever over his third win of the day, the crack bay beating Cossack's Beauty by 8 lengths in four-fifths of a second slower time than Diana Bay's track record. King's Justice was a poor third in a fast race.

IRON GREY'S SUCCESS
As was fully expected Fi Fa (Mr. Proulx) shot away from the gate in great style in the Garrison Cup, but Racing Boy (Mr. Sun) was hard on his heels. Iron Grey (Mr. Needa) and Cavalcade (Mr. Encarnacao) hung back until the Rock was reached and then came through to outstrip the leaders and finish in that order. Young Chap (Mr. Ho) came very close in a thrilling burst on the rails, less than a length separating him from the winner.

Mr. Frost secured his fourth win when he piloted The Chetah to a 1½ lengths triumph over Belmont Star (Mr. Li) in the Mongolian Stakes. Wadebridge (Mr. Marshall) was third, and Double Chance, the favourite, was nowhere.

The Chetah and Wadebridge went out into the lead at the start, but were early challenged by Latitat and Double Chance. The latter looked to be certain of a place when rounding the bend into the home stretch, but Belmont Star came through with a great rush to secure second place in a fighting finish.

HEROD FAVOURITE
Happy Valley, Earlier.
Mr. Hem's Herod was the favourite for to-day's Derby at an early hour this morning. He will be ridden by Mr. W. H. S. Davis, the local jockey. The fact that both Herod and Mr. Li Shiu-pang's Soldier of Honour were not concerned in Saturday's fiasco has sent both their stocks soaring.

One owner whose opinion is very well respected told me that nothing would touch Herod over the distance.

Mistake Bay, one-time favourite, has slumped badly in the betting as the result of the Trial Plate result, but King's Jubilee, his conqueror, has little support. Rose-Queen is considered the biggest menace to Herod with Soldier of Honour good for a place.

Rumours were current early this morning that Pacific Hall, which was unplaced on Saturday, would not accept for the Derby, but I learned on good authority that these were completely unfounded. All the starters are reported sound, and one of the most keen Darbies in recent years is expected.

It is expected that an even larger crowd present for the first race than on Saturday, and all tiffin reservations were booked very early in the day, which promises an even bigger crowd for the afternoon programme.

The course is in the pink of condition and there is every reason to expect a track record from Able Amazon in the Melbourne Cup and from Derby Day in the Perth Plate.

The selections for to-day will be found on the front page of the special Derby Supplement issued with to-day's editions. Owners were again very reticent, and it is exceedingly difficult to know just where the ponies are starting.

The thirty-three unplaced ponies in the Derby will pay $682.80 in the Jockey Club's Honour and Ythan in challenging positions. In a thrilling finish the Dunbar entry just held his own with his two rivals in the same positions, not more than a length behind. This was Mr. Frost's second win in three races.

CHINESE "DERBY" PROVIDES BRILLIANT DISPLAY

CHAMPIONS FORTUNATE TO SHARE POINTS AFTER BEING OUTPLAYED

TSUIAH-FAI OUTSTANDING AT PIVOT

(By "ROVER")

A TREMENDOUS CROWD OF SPECTATORS GATHERED AT THE CLUB GROUND YESTERDAY TO WITNESS THE RETURN ENCOUNTER BETWEEN SOUTH CHINA "A" AND THE ATHLETIC, AND WERE ENTERTAINED TO ONE OF THE FINEST EXHIBITIONS OF FOOTBALL SEEN THIS SEASON, THE FINAL RESULT BEING A DRAW OF ONE GOAL EACH.

South China were once again in luck's way; the Athletic simply outplayed them in all phases of the game and were yards faster. To have gained a point (a goal by Tam late in the game levelled the score) is no credit to their performance; at no time did they play like champions, and will be the first to admit how fortunate they are still to retain their unbeaten record.

THE ATHLETIC HAD THE BEST PLAYER ON VIEW IN TSUI AH-FAI, THEIR PIVOT. HE WAS THE INSPIRATION OF EVERY MOVE, AND SUPPLIED "DARKIE" CHAN AND HO KA-KEUNG WITH COUNTLESS PERFECT PASSES. IN TACKLING AND SPOILING HE STOOD HEAD AND SHOULDERS ABOVE THE OTHERS, AND FUNG KING-CHEONG, WHOM HE WAS MARKING, WAS NEVER IN THE PICTURE.

HE RECEIVED SPLENDID SUPPORT FROM NG TAK-WING AND HO CHOR-YIN, WHO EXCELLED IN SWIFT TACKLING AND LONG-ACCURATE PASSES UP THE WING.

4.17 S. China kicked off.
4.18 Ho Ka-keung scored for the Athletic.

4.26 Yeung Kan-po sent in fast shot, missed upright by Lau.

4.27 Wong Wing made good save from a header by "Darkie" Chan.

4.29 Yeung Kan-po injured.

4.31 Yeung Kan-po returned, swathed in bandages.

4.35 Wong Wing made splendid save from a hard drive by Lee Hong-cheong.

4.42 Fung King-cheong sent in a hot shot which was well held by Lau.

4.51 Wong Wing failed to hold ball from a hard drive. "Darkie" Chan rushed in but sent ball just outside the upright.

5.09 Lee Kwok-wai injured and left field.

5.21 Wong Wing was brought to his knees to make a spectacular save from "Darkie" Chan.

5.27 Yeung Kan-po broke through S. China's defence, but shot wide with only the goalkeeper to beat.

5.28 Tam Kong-pak scored equaliser for S. China.

5.35 Ho Chor-yin missed the goal by yards after taking the ball down the length of the field.

5.38 Ho Ka-keung sent in a hard shot from the right corner of the field, but Wong Wing saved well.

SOUTH CHINA WIN FIRST ENCOUNTER OF SEASON

"Darkie" Chan Misses Penalty

In their first encounter, played three months ago, at Caroline Hill, South China beat the Athletic by 2 goals to 1 after leading at the interval by an only goal.

The game was featured by a missed penalty by "Darkie" Chan, and the ordering off of Lee Ting-sang, the South China "A" and Interport right-back.

ITALIAN SOCCER WIN

Rome, to-day.—Italy beat France by 2 goals to 1 yesterday in an international soccer match (Reuters).

Fincher Brothers in Big Stand

A third wicket partnership, which realised 68 runs, between the Fincher brothers, was the feature of the friendly cricket match between the Kowloon Cricket Club and the Small Units eleven at King's Park yesterday.

E. C. Fincher included six boundaries in his 47, while E. F. Fincher scored 34.

The home team batted first and were dismissed for 252, Lee being the top scorer with 61 runs. When 11 he was fortunate not to be run out when Elvin deflected a drive from Gittins on to his wicket while he was out of his ground.

The military team started shakily, and it was not until Elvin and College got together that their score began to mount, the pair adding 58 before College was taken behind the stumps off Zimmern.

SERVICE CORPS LOSE MAMAK HOCKEY GAME

KOWLOON INDIANS RETAIN LEAD

LOSERS' INTERMEDIATE LINE SHOWS STEADINESS

(By "STICKS")

The Kowloon Indians' Tennis Club retained the leadership of the Mamak Hockey Tournament table when they defeated the Royal Army Service Corps by a lone goal on the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday, after being held in a goalless first half.

The outstanding feature of the game was the steady play of the Corps' intermediate line. Too good, at centre-half, was the best of the line, as a player, but he failed to hold G. Singh, the Colony leader.

The Indian defence was the strength of the team, Karnell Singh being the better of the two backs, his hitting being more accurate and harder than that of his partner. The game throughout was very even with the R.A.S.C. team having slightly the better of the play. They were again unlucky to find Senior off-form.

It was not until late in the second half that G. Singh opened the scoring with a neat shot after beating the defence. A little while previous to this Senior, the military leader, had had hard luck when a swift drive of his struck the upright and rebounded into play.

R.A.S.C.—Headland, Grant and Ramson; Dally, Toogood and Meeker; Barlow, Tippet, Senior, Butters and Jeffers.
K.I.T.C.—Rumjahn, Karnell Singh and K. Singh; J. Noronha, D. Singh and M. Singh; J. Singh, D. Noronha, G. Singh, Pintos and Sousa.

RADIO LOSE MAMAK ENCOUNTER

Police Win By Clear Margin

The Radio suffered their first Mamak Hockey Tournament defeat this season at the hands of the Police, the holders, on the Police Training School ground yesterday, losing by three clear goals.

The Police were by far the superior team, and over-ran their opponents throughout. U. B. Souza, the Radio's custodian, shone, but was poorly supported by his two backs.

The scoring was opened by Rulia Khan, the Police left-wing, while Wassa, the inside-left, netted the second.

After the interval, Wassa added the third from a corner hit.

SIGNALS HELD BY C.B.A. AFTER SCORING FIRST

Keenly Contested Mamak Game

T. WHITLEY'S FINE STICKWORK

(By "STICKS")

After leading by a goal at the interval, the Royal Corps of Signals were forced to share two goals with the Central British Association in their Mamak Hockey Tournament match at King's Park yesterday.

Although they had the better of the play, the C.B.A. were unable to break through the sound opposing defence. T. Whitley, at inside-right, gave an inspiring display with his clever stickwork and fast attacking movements; he was, however, badly supported.

Farmer, at centre-half, proved a stumbling block to May, the Signals' leader, and kept him quiet throughout a greater period of the game. He was also conspicuous for his neat and accurate forward passes. V. Bond, at right-back, played a very steady game, clearing with confidence.

The outstanding features of the Signals' play were the clever movements by May and Austen during the first half. It was as a result of one of these that May scored his goal.

Signals Open Scoring
Play was evenly distributed in the opening stages of the game but later, the C.B.A. forwards took up the offensive.
Towards the end of the first half, the Signals' forwards surprised the C.B.A. defence for May to score with a well-placed drive from short range.

Flashes From Soccer Fields And Clubroom Crocker And Kiley Shine In Navy Eleven

(By "ROVER")

THE Navy surprised their supporters on Saturday when they defeated the Lincolns by three clear goals.

Crocker more than lived up to his reputation on his last week's display for the Navy premier eleven. He played excellently, showing good anticipation, clean and sure ball control, strong clearing, and was never ruffled.

Moss, another newcomer, also merited his inclusion, and, coupled with the veteran Rycroft, formed a perfect bulwark to the attacks of Higgins and Co.

Pyatt, brought into the pivotal position in place of McGuire, played very well. He had Riddle and Baldry well marked and this pair were not allowed to make much headway.

KILEY IMPRESSES

The man to share the laurels with Crocker was Kiley at inside-left. Only a slim player in build, Kiley went all out during the 70 minutes of play and gave a great exhibition. He was very tricky and brought off some very clever moves besides, making excellent attempts at the goal, one of which succeeded.

Skinner was too well marked to do much, but on the few occasions when he gained possession he sent in some excellent centres, his corner kicking being perfect and more than one of his centres should have been converted.

Meaken, the Lincolns' custodian, had more work to do than Crocker, but played very well nevertheless; the shots which beat him would have beaten nine out of ten goalkeepers.

BACKS OUTWITTED

Ash and Edmundson, the two backs, cleared well and kept the Navy out, the long passing of the Navy's forwards ultimately proving their undoing.

The Lincoln forwards were quite up to standard, and had many attempts at scoring, but the Navy defence was too good for them.

The Recoile caused the second surprise on Saturday, when they so decisively beat the Police by the odd goal in five on the Kowloon ground.

Marques was not called upon to any great extent, but saved what shots reached him very capably. He was given an easy time by A. V. Gosano and Bowen, who were well to the fore when the Police threatened with splendid first-time clearances and good headwork.

A. V. GOSANO AGAIN

A. V. Gosano was especially on form, and Green and Moss found themselves up against a brick wall in trying to pass him.

Throughout the second half, Marsh, the Signals' custodian, was prominent under heavy pressure, but with well directed kicks and good anticipation, he cleared most of the shots which came his way. Late in the second half, Johnson equalised with a shot off a rebound.

Ten minutes from time the Signals made another attack, but May hit over the cross-bar when faced with an empty goal!

C.B.A.—King, Bond and N. Whitley; Blythe, Farmer and Atkins; Clayton, T. Whitley, Johnson, Blackford and Pearns.
Signals—Marsh, Hodges and Oakley; Buttery, Martin and Miller; Fielding, Farrell, May, Austen and Larking.

CHINESE "DERBY" PROVIDES BRILLIANT DISPLAY

Lee Kwok Wai Injured

Leung Wing-chui was far too slow for Ho Ka-keung, and his passes were rarely accurate. His partner on the left flank, Lee Kwok-wai, tried unavailingly to break up the clever inter-passing between the Athletic right-wing. Early after the interval he sustained a fractured arm and went off for the remainder of the game.

The South China forwards were put right off their game by the quick tackling of their opponents, and never recovered from a bad start.

The goal scored by Tam Kong-pak was a good one nevertheless, but at no other period of the game did they look likely to score.

Fung King-cheong, in the centre, was helpless against the indefatigable Tsui Ah-tai, and when he did attempt to pass and send his wingers away the result was invariably a wild lunge outside.

Tam and Wong Mee-shun worked heroically to infuse some combination into the line, but apart from a few bouts of inter-passing, which usually led nowhere, they had no chance to get into their stride.

Early Athletic Lead

The Athletic won the toss, and Fung King-cheong kicked off against a strong sun. Thrills came quickly, and in a whirlwind opening the Athletic took the lead amid intense excitement.

Tsui secured, and sent out a long swinging pass to Fung King-yu. The winger steadied himself, and passed into Ho Ka-keung, who somehow contrived to "lose" Lee Tin-sang and Lau Mau, and flashed the ball past Wong with a splendid first-time effort.

The suddenness of this movement took Wong completely by surprise, and he looked unable to believe his own eyes when he saw the ball lying in the net behind him!

Mak Sui-hon Brilliant

After a brief attack by South China, quickly nipped in the bud by Mak Sui-hon, the Athletic set up another business-like raid, and forced a corner on the left. Fung King-yu dropped the ball in the goalmouth, but Tam Kong-pak headed away.

Play was extremely fast, and the ensuing exchanges were decidedly in favour of the Athletic.

Wong saved brilliantly from Ho Ka-keung after that player and Lee Hon-cheong had cleverly worked the ball through, but was rather lucky when shots by Ho and Yeung flashed by the wrong side of the upright.

South China made several feeble attempts to score, but their moves always broke down when they reached Mak Sui-hon, and from his stage until the interval the Athletic were the only side in the picture.

Ho's Unlucky Hesitation

Ho should have added a goal when he delayed his shot from 6 yards, giving Lau Mau time to rush in and charge his shot down; he missed another chance when, left unmarked in front of goal, giving Wong a comparatively easy drive to save.

The interval came with the Athletic a solitary goal in the lead.

Brilliant Clearances

From the resumption, Lee Hon-cheong swung the ball right into the goalmouth, and Wong experienced difficulty in clearing a dangerous shot.

During the early stages of this half Mak Sui-hon evoked well-merited applause by his brilliant first-time clearances, and Tay and Wong Mee-shun (who changed places with Tam) could make little impression on him.

A dangerous move by Ho and "Darkie" Chan gave South China a fright, but the former's final shot curled up just outside the post.

The Athletic continued to do all the attacking, and displayed splendid football craft, whereas their opponents were playing like a beaten team. With the exception of Wong and Tam, the South China forwards appeared slow, and wasted any opportunities they might have had by overloading.

Ten South China Men

At this stage, South China were reduced to 10 men, Lee Kwok-wai and D. J. O'Connor in the final sustaining a fractured arm.

RETURN ENCOUNTER AT STONECUTTERS

An excellent day's shooting was enjoyed by teams from H.M.S. Cornwall and the Dockyard Rifle Club, who met in a return encounter on the Stonecutters Range, which resulted in a tie, both teams totalling 478 points.

A. B. Robinson, of the Cornwall, and E. Newnham, of the Yard, recorded the best scores of the day, with 84 points.

Practices were from the 200, 500 and 600 yards butts. The scores were:—

ROYAL ENGINEERS LOSE TO R.A.O.C.

Sappers' Late Start Unavailing

At Sookunpo on Saturday, the Ordnance Corps gained a further two points when they defeated the Engineers in their Third Division encounter by 2 goals to 1.

The game opened at a pace fast with occasional raids on either goal. After about 20 minutes, Prince opened the scoring for the Ordnance. Receiving a well directed pass from Worsfold in the centre, he went forward to beat the defence and send in a fast shot to find the corner of the net.

Soon after Routledge secured the second goal, scoring off a rebound with a high curling shot which Carter failed to reach. Immediately after the interval, the Sappers pressed and their efforts were rewarded when Strike, receiving a good centre from the left-wing, made no mistake with a well-timed drive.

The hard-working "Darkie" Chan was shooting on every possible occasion, and Wong had his work cut out to stop the many attempts directed at his charge.

On one occasion, the Athletic missed a genuine "sitter." "Darkie" passed to Yeung Kam-po, and the inside-right showed a clean pair of heels to Leung Wing-chui and Lau Mau, only to steady himself right in front of goal and shoot wide! A chance in a lifetime thrown away.

South China appeared dangerous at times, chiefly through Tam Kong-pak, who worked untiringly for the equaliser, but the Athletic defence was always equal to the occasion.

Towards the end, however, play slowed down and veered slightly in South China's favour and they were quick to seize on this temporary lapse on the part of the Athletic.

Splendid Equaliser

Leung In-chan lobbed the ball over to Wong, who neatly deflected it to Tam Kong-pak, and the inside-right sent in a terrific drive which Sui Tim-lin was powerless to stop. It was a splendid "snap" goal.

In the last few minutes the Athletic made an attempt to regain the lead, but it was apparent that they had shot their bolt, and the game concluded with the ball in mid-field.

The game was extremely fast and interesting, and the football served up by the Athletic was of the highest standard.

They were very unlucky not to have taken both points, but must blame themselves for not making the most of their opportunities.

SILVER EXPORT CHECKED FIRST BY KWANGTUNG

Yet Figures Reveal Huge Outflow

MUCH SMUGGLING BEING CARRIED ON

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

During 1934 Kwangtung exported silver to the value of $480,360 and imported the same metal to the value of $255,465, according to figures compiled by the Kwangtung Statistics Bureau.

The exports and imports of silver were through Canton, Swatow, Huihow, and Pakhoi.

The heavy export figures are considered surprising in view of the fact that Canton prohibited the export of silver long before the Nanking embargo was imposed. Each person leaving here is allowed to carry away only $20 in silver, this order being further reinforced later by Nanking orders to restrict the export of silver. The foregoing export figures do not include the value of the smuggled white metal

A quizzical expression appeared on Bruno Hauptmann's face as he whispered to Egbert Roserans, one of his counsel, as a witness testified against him in the Flemington courtroom. Note how the New Jersey State trooper is eyeing the prisoner.

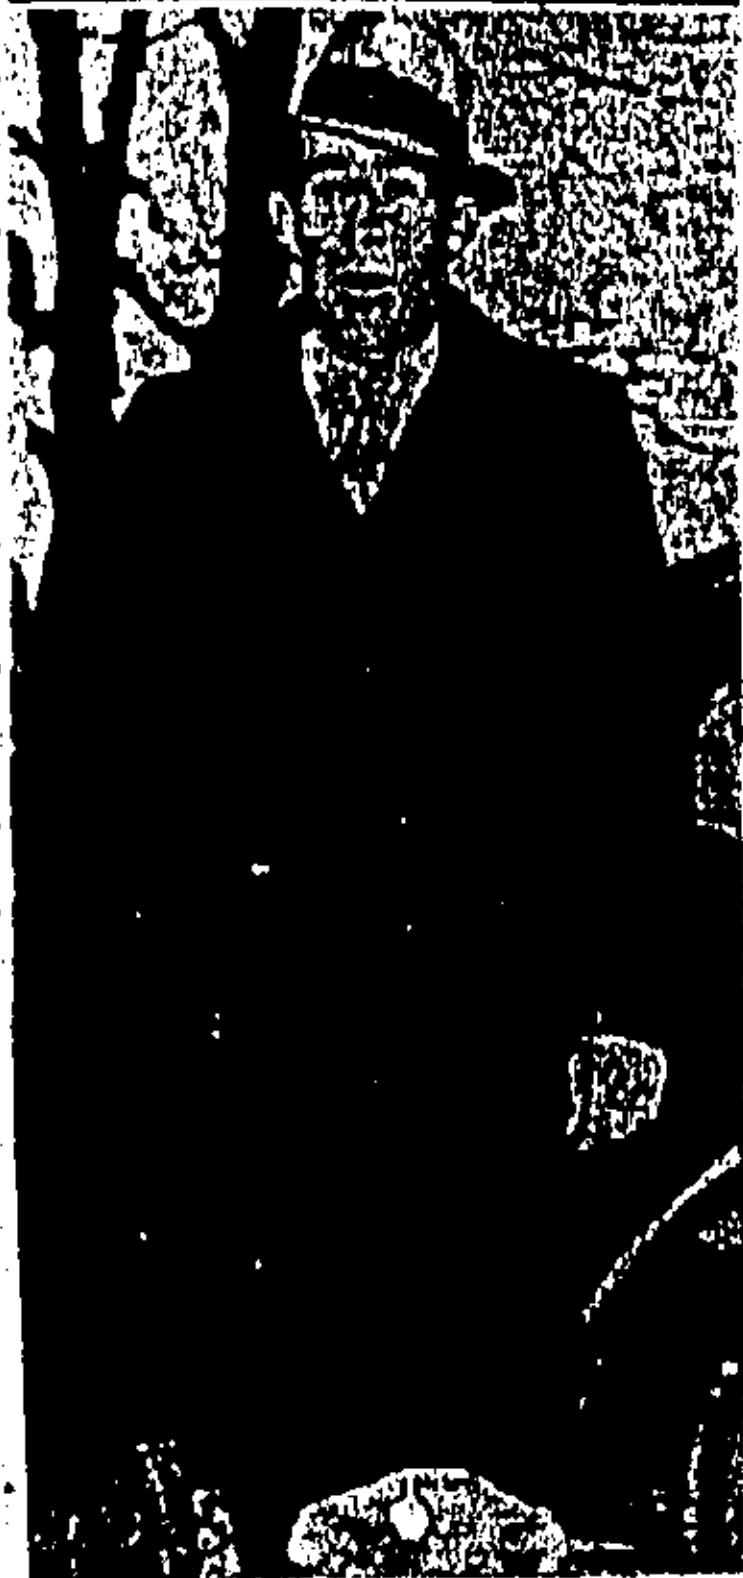

The striking changes effected in Col. Charles A. Lindbergh are shown in these two photographs, one of them made at the time of his Paris flight and the other in the courthouse at Flemington.

A new and exclusive posed portrait (above) of Dr. John F. Jafaie, the 75-year-old Bronx schoolmaster who was made a worldwide headline figure by the words of doom he spoke in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, at Flemington, N. J. In striking contrast is the lower photograph, showing him happy over outpointing the defence lawyers as they sought to break down his testimony.

These women, with four men, testified as handwriting experts in the defence of Bruno Hauptmann. Fran Zaenglein, recognized as one of the leading experts of Europe, was brought from Germany to analyse the Lindbergh ransom notes. The trio are shown at Trenton, N.J., examining the documents.

Millard Whitely, the Souland Mountain neighbour of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, as he appeared at the courthouse in Flemington, to testify that he saw Bruno Richard Hauptmann in New Jersey just before the kidnapping.

David Friedlander (above), New York theatre manager, describes Amandus Hochmuth, the octogenarian German-American who "put the finger" on Hauptmann as the Jersey visitor the day of the Lindbergh kidnapping, as a former employee he discharged because he had "hallucinations."

Nelson Wyckoff, Hopewell, another of the procession of witnesses of the State who pointed the finger of accusation at Bruno Richard Hauptmann. He is here seen at the courthouse, at Flemington.

LITERARY NOTES

THE BAFFLING LAND

A Haunting Picture Of China

FRENCH SURGEON'S EFFORT

A Surgeon's China. By Albert Gervols. (Hamish Hamilton. 7s. 6d.)

This book is enchanting. It is rich in humanity, it runs the gamut from haunting tragedy and macabre horrors to the wittiest of farce.

One story alone reveals more of the essential China than a dozen ordinary books of travel. The author, a French surgeon, wished to demonstrate anatomy by dissecting a body. The first attempt led to an attack on the hospital by a maddened crowd crying, "Death to the foreign corpse-eater! Death! Death!"

On the second occasion the Chinese director of the hospital triumphantly announced that he had found a way to avoid ill-feeling. With the co-operation of the governor he would have the subject delivered alive. Not one, he said reasonably, could find fault with an experiment that differed hardly at all from ordinary torture.

"But the man must be dead!" insisted the doctor.

The director said he had imagined that the process of dissection would in time produce the desired result. If it didn't, any soldier would finish the fellow. When the doctor still objected to gave way: the fellow selected would be promised, he said. But when the great day arrived, and the governor and so many notables arrived with their families that there was room for only four students, a man was led in chains. In a fury the doctor rose to leave, sighing at such obstinacy, the director murmured a word to the soldiery: a shot rang out, and the victim was laid on the table, the blood running from his head. The governor's children burst into tears. Appalling, thought the stunned Frenchman, that little children should witness such horrors! The governor raised a child on each knee: the crying ceased. "They were cross because they couldn't see very well," explained the director, courteously, indicating that the audience was waiting.

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

Only one case of diphtheria was reported in the Colony during Saturday and Sunday.

The R.M.S. Empress of Japan arrived at Vancouver on Saturday, and is due here on March 16, sailing the same day for Manila.

No rain has been recorded in the Colony from 10 o'clock on Saturday-morning till 10 a.m. to-day.

A Japanese woman, Potra Richi, living at No. 11 Gloucester Road, was sent to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday, suffering from poison, the effects said to have been self-administered.

The s.s. Carthage, carrying the outward England mails, is due here on Thursday at 6 a.m.

For the theft of two overcoats, valued at $16, the property of his employer at No. 21 Queen's Road West, Choi Yau, a 24-year-old tailor, was this morning sentenced to six weeks' hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy.

An fine of $50, in default one month's imprisonment each, was imposed on Chan Lu, 38 years, and Yung Cheung-chung, unemployed, by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning, for being in possession of a quantity of po pin lottery tickets.

Li Choi's alibi that he came ashore to buy some vegetables failed him this morning when he was sentenced to nine months' hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy, for returning from banishment. Accused was expelled from the Colony in 1932 for 10 years.

MR. EDWARD CANTOR

Mr. K. Quas-Cohen, of Manchester, addressing the University Conservative Associations' conference at Edinburgh, said he would warn the Government that if they would not take the lead there were many to whom the country might turn, including now, he believed, "Mr. Edward Cantor."

TALE OF MAN WHO ACHIEVED

Life-Story Of Kaye Don

THRILLING NARRATIVE OF SPEED "ACE"

Kaye Don—The Man.—By J. Wentworth Day. Foreword by Sir Malcolm Campbell. Hutchinson, London: 7/6.

The widespread sympathy with Kaye Don aroused by his recent conviction in the Isle of Man following a motor accident gives a special interest to this absorbing narrative of his experiences as a "speed merchant."

Those who are inclined to imagine that the breaking of world speed records is just a matter of getting into a specially prepared vehicle and "stepping on the gas" will be greatly surprised if they read this story of Kaye Don's trials and tribulations in connection with his attempts to achieve for Great Britain the world record on land and water.

His early triumphs were obtained as a motor-cyclist, but later he became a well-known and often successful competitor in motor races at Brooklands. His heroic failure at Daytona Beach in a four-thousand horse-power Sunbeam will be remembered as the occasion when he was nearly burnt alive, but his greatest claim to distinction is undoubtedly in connection with his struggle with the American, Commodore Gar-wood, for the Harmsworth Trophy and the world water speed record.

The detailed record of these contests, and the account of the many difficulties and dangers encountered and overcome, make most interesting reading, and the book is to be heartily commended to those who appreciate a story of real adventure and hairbreadth escapes.

CIVIL SERVANTS LIFE

The biography of a great civil servant is contained in "Sir Robert Morant," by Bernard M. Allen, which Macmillan has published. Morant helped Balfour to shape and carry through Parliament the Education Act of 1902, and later was largely instrumental in applying Mr. Lloyd George's National Health Insurance Act and in founding the Ministry of Health.

EUKUTOL

THE BIOLOGICAL SKIN TONIC
BEAUTY, nowadays, is not just an accidental gift of nature; it can be attained also by well thought out and systematic care of the body, that most exquisite and wonderful organisation which has come to us from the Divine hand. And although beauty is more than skin-deep, a dazzling skin is indispensable to beauty. A few minutes devoted daily to the care of your skin will keep you young and supple, healthy and attractive. "Beauty and health are the chief sources of happiness," says Beaconsfield. But how, you ask, can I appropriate beauty? Our medical, chemical and cosmetic experts have solved the question for you, Madam.

The preparations forming the foundation for the Eukutol System are the outcome of years of scientific labour, of investigations into the natural requirements of the skin, into the active elements and nutrients needed by the skin for the unremitting renewal of its beauty. The Eukutol System is explained in a small booklet and when you have read it you will join the already vast ranks of Eukutol adherents. You will have every reason to be grateful for the results of the System. Make a beginning this very evening, with a free sample from all dispensaries and stores.

Bloodshed in Russia

In some senses it is true that the conflict between the Stalin group and its rivals is a conflict between Right and Left. Nevertheless, the fact must not be lost sight of that the two groups are still one at heart so far as concerns their attitude to the outside world. Both, if they could, would overthrow Western civilisation. Further, from the point of view of blood-lust, there is not a pin to choose between them. It has often been asserted that the "old originals" of Bolshevism took, at the very outset of their conspiracy, an oath that they would never, under any circumstances, put one another to death. If that is true, it shows how thoroughly they understood the nature of revolutions, which always tend to destroy their own first leaders. This oath, it is held, accounted for the fact that Trotsky was killed, instead of being executed; and now the same explanation is believed to cover the cases of Zinovieff and Kamenoff, consigned to a living death instead of an actual one. Both men dominated Russia for years, and both of them, with the fondness of their type for an alias, carry false names. But the comparative clemency accorded to them has not been extended to the rank and file of their accomplices—or alleged accomplices, as we should say, seeing that no one really knows what has been going on behind the veil of secrecy in Russia. It is not known, and probably never will be, how many men and women have been shot on one pretext or another. The chance must have been a fine one for those in power to pay off any old grudges. They are people, remember, who detest and would fain uproot such systems as resemble British justice. We know, and we see, what methods they prefer.

One unusual episode of the present occasion has been the intervention for what it is worth, of the British Labour party. It does not appear to have come from the essay-writing intelligentsia, the Fabians who have never yet seen anything to deplore in Red Russia at all. No, the protest was left for the industrial wing to make, and the fact that it was made at all is striking if only from its rarity. A deputation waited on the Russian Ambassador in London, and, of course, accomplished nothing. The Ambassador told them that they had spoken without knowledge of the facts, and proceeded (having a monopoly of fact-production) to talk in the usual way of despots who are at once accusers and judges. The members of the deputation still murmur ing that open trials would have been more convincing, were they bowed out by a man who no doubt, heartily despised them. At almost the same moment as he was fobbing them off with polite platitudes, Maxim Gorki, whose transformation from a devotee of liberty to a high priest of despotism was recently remarked upon by Mr. Wells, was putting into plainer phrase what all these people really think of humane reformers. Howling for blood in the true style of the infamous: Marat, Gorki declares that no attention must be paid to "the sighs and moans of professional humanitarians." He need have little fear on that score. One other curious incident has been that Moscow has witnessed the first anti-Jewish riots since the Soviet system was established. Like Trotsky (Bronstein), Zinovieff and Kamenoff are both denationalised Jews, of the kind that decent Jews do not esteem. Are their triumphant foes going to exploit anti-Semitism more inconsistently than ever the Czardom did? If so, the young lions of the "New Statesman" will surely be roused at last!

The truth is that the new Russia is even a worse prison than Czarist Russia was. The sight of bristling factories, built to the loud approval of many who deplore the over-mechanisation of our own industrial age, is no answer to the sinister fact of minds, enslaved. The Czardom tolerated Tolstol, a phenomenon of moderation to which Bolshevism offers no parallel. Bolshevism has its shootings and its Siberia, but no single action of tolerance to set in the balance against them. It has slain more and starved more than all the other autocracies of Europe put together, and the "interesting experiment" appears to be no nearer a peaceful consummation than it ever was. Once again, how vivid seems the contrast to even the least satisfactory form of democracy, under which neither rival candidates nor former colleagues are murdered or exiled. Studying these things, we should daily take more courage, be bolder in our championship of constitutional procedure. If democracy possessed no other merit than that of saving its people from perpetual censorship and periodic bloodshed, it would surely be worth preserving, worth defending against fanatics of either the Right or the Left. This, and this alone, is the lesson we can learn from Russia, a lesson written in letters of blood.

Appearing at the Kowloon Magistrate's court on three charges of assault, larceny (from person), and larceny, Cheung Chik-lee, a 22-year-old man, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment on the first charge only, the other two charges being dismissed. Cheung Chik-lee, of 10, 11, and 12, Mr. A. W. G. H. Grant.

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

HOPES DEFERRED

For a number of members of Parliament the publication of the Honours List was a case of hope deferred.

Their hearts, however, need not be unduly sick. There will be at least three other lists before this Parliament ends: there may be more.

There will be this year's birthday list; probably a special jubilee list; and a dissolution list.

"So if the omitted in the New Year list continue not to weary in well-doing, this hopes—and there is no doubt about the hopes entertained by some of them—may be realised.

POWER OF THE PEN

Western Australia's petition for secession from the Commonwealth, which will be presented to Parliament shortly, was written by one man. He worked steadily seven hours a day for three weeks.

The preparation of the case occupied a committee for five months. The petition runs to 8800 words in 900 lines.

Parliament will be asked to appoint a Selection Committee to consider it.

The three delegates who brought it from Australia have instructions to remain in England until they get the Government decision.

If the Government grant a Select Committee, before which counsel and witnesses appear, the delegates may be compelled to stay for a year or more.

LODGERS ROB
HOUSEKEEPERS

Six Weeks' Gaoi Sentence

Lai Chik-sang, the keeper of a lodging house at No. 66 Calne Road and the victim of two thefts by his lodgers, appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistrate's court this morning as complainant against Cheung Chok-lam and Yip Ping-chi, who were charged with the larceny of two blankets. Sergeant Fowle stated that accused were arrested at different pawnshops attempting to pawn the articles. Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was imposed.

WHERE ASIA MEETS EUROPE LAND AND LABOUR IN NEW PALESTINE

QUESTIONS WHICH CREATE SOCIAL PROBLEMS

(By H. D. Ziman)

CHANCE brought me upon an American journalist visiting Palestine, a man who looked as Nordic as any Nazi, with that symbol of Nordic man in the East—a solar topee.

We talked one night, and he told me he had fought in France as an American. After the war he had found that for many Americans he was "only a Jew." So far, at least, he was not a Zionist, but he had come to see what sort of land Zionism was creating. What created Zionism he already knew.

Translated into terms of political, economic, and even physical persecution in Europe the social anti-Semitism which he had experienced in a free country. Then you may understand the forces which have stimulated the return to Zion of Jews from Russia, from Poland, from Austria, from Roumania, and more recently from Germany.

Yet Zionism is not simply a negative movement of escape. When immigrants come to-day from Germany, looking doubtfully upon a culture strange to the Western European, older comers put to them a somewhat malicious question: "Have you come from conviction or merely from Berlin?"

The All-Jewish City

In Tel Aviv, that ambitious and bustling city of 100,000 Jews which, in the few years since the war, has erected itself on the sandhills north of Jaffa, the idealistic side of Zionism will scarcely show itself. A lovely bathing beach, flourishing factories, and bright shops. The first all-Jewish city, and very proud of it. But it was not for this end that the older generation of Zionists drained those malarious swamps which are now fertile lands.

The best Zionists, then and now, wished to form in Palestine a new kind of Jewish community, better integrated and more productive. There were too many Jewish professional men, Jewish dealers, merchants, shopkeepers and bankers in the world. There were too few Jewish farmers and peasants, too few Jewish labourers and artisans. So it has been one aim of the Zionists to prevent the Jew from becoming merely a property-owning planter to whom Arab labour might be the equivalent of native labour in Africa. The Jew must work with his own hands.

Much of the Jewish-owned land in Palestine has been acquired by the Jewish National Fund to which Jews all over the world subscribe. Land thus purchased cannot be alienated from Jewish hands, and must be worked entirely by Jewish labour.

Communal Colonies

Partly it is cut off into lots cultivated by family groups who co-operate for marketing and for heavy operations. Partly it is worked by communal colonies of anything from 50 to 400 persons of both sexes, who live a corporate life which may be described as Communism in the early Christian rather than the Marxian sense. (Zionism, it may be mentioned, is a forbidden movement in Soviet Russia, and the Palestine Labour movement has no relations with the Third International.)

My hosts at one of these communal colonies were young and disturbingly intense. None much over 30 and some of them below 20 years old, they had neither pocket-money nor private property. Even books went into a common stock. Once a year the community buys its stock of clothes, and every few months one or more members are sent off on holiday.

The men wear blue jerseys, shorts and cloth caps, the women blue blouses, and black bloomers, with handkerchiefs round their heads. This costume is unattractive and slightly amateurish, as if townfolk had adapted themselves without much thought to agricultural life, as indeed the first comers did.

The children, here and at all but one of the colonies, I visited apart from their parents in a communal baby farm, which is always the best building. The women in just on working on the land beside the men, so these large-scale nurseries are necessary. The youngest generation do not seem less affectionate with their parents than babies brought up under the parental roof elsewhere.

Building A School

A school building was being completed in which dormitories, play-rooms and class-rooms were ingeniously adaptable to all or any of the three uses. Other colonies had banded with my friends to build the school and send their children there. Each colony was lending two of its own men or girls in fortnightly relays to share in the actual labourer's work on the building. At night the strangers held a sing-song, and I recognised, a little queerly, the tune of "Bring back my Bonny to me" adapted to Hebrew words.

Each colony is self-governing. The work is apportioned daily by a small committee, and the most disagreeable jobs are taken in rotation. Unfortunately cooking is regarded as particularly degrading work, and no one is allowed to remain a cook long enough to learn how to make the best use of the rough diet. Nor, except in two of the older colonies which I visited, did anyone think it worth while keeping the drinking water cool in large porous jugs such as the Arabs use.

My hosts had as neighbours two Arab villages. With one group they were on excellent terms, inviting them to their jollifications, and lending and borrowing sugar or flour in times of temporary shortage. With the other their relations were less amiable. The lot of the majority of Arabs has been improved by the prosperity which the Zionists have brought to Palestine. On the other hand, the more backward of the villages have seen the crop of living go up without any compensating demand for their own wares or labour.

Improved Lands

When land passes out of Arab hands it passes by a legitimate and lucrative sale, which in many instances enables the late owners to improve their remaining land with the proceeds. But the Arabs see land once worked, however primitively, by the fellah now cultivated by Jews. Where sparse wheat crops supported a handful of fellahs, intensive communities such as I have described are now made possible by mixed farming, with cattle, poultry, and artificial fertilisers for the crops.

During the four years from 1930 only 37 square miles of land actually passed into Jewish ownership. But sentiment counts for more in Palestine than statistics. However few Arab squatters may be displaced, however freely waste Government lands or new lands reclaimed by Jewish enterprise from the fuleh marshes may be granted to dispossessed Arab tenants, some of them will regret the change as forcibly as the English peasant regretted the Enclosure Acts of a century and more ago.

In Palestine, as in England, the agricultural and industrial revolutions bring their benefits, as well as their penalties. But it is particularly difficult for the Arab villager to see the benefits of the new agriculture when its most enthusiastic promulgators are persons from far countries with strange

SOUTH ARMY NOT WELCOME IN KWEICHOW

Canton And Nanking At Variance

NO CO-OPERATION APPEARS TO BE POSSIBLE

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Canton, Yesterday.

An open disagreement arose to-day between Canton and Nanking over the expedition to Kweichow, following instructions from General Ho Ying-ching, Minister of War, stating that the Communists can be suppressed by the Nanking and Szechuen forces without much difficulty and that it is unnecessary for Kwangtung and Kwangsi troops to go to Kweichow.

Mr. Hsiao Ku-cheng, spokesman of the South-west Political Council, stated in an interview that, notwithstanding General Ho's order, the expeditionary will continue their march to the West, although the War Minister's decision had the approval of General Chiang Kai-shek, Chairman of the Military Affairs Commission.

"If Canton and Nanking cannot co-operate in suppressing the Red hordes, there is no other possibility of collaboration," Mr. Hsiao continued. "There are many Nanking troops in Northern Kweichow, yet they are not used to pursuing Communists."

JAPANESE POLICY

Mr. Hsiao also expressed his opposition to the new pro-Japan policy of the Nanking Government, saying that an enemy cannot be treated as a friend. The surrender of Manchuria, he said, dashes to the ground all hopes of internal unity and co-operation, while externally there is much misgiving and unrest.

According to Nanking reports, only some Communist remnants remain in Northern Kweichow, while their main force is located in Southern Szechuen and Northern Yunnan. There are several Nanking divisions in Kweichow, which are deemed sufficient to maintain peace and order in that province. The Nanking Government desires to take full control of Kweichow and does not wish the presence of other troops there.

It is learned from reliable sources that the Communists are still a potent force on the Yunnan-Szechuen borders. Several towns in Northern Yunnan have been occupied by the Red marauders, and fierce fighting is raging in the northern districts. The outlaws expect to enter Western Szechuen via Southern Yunnan.

SUN TRAP TO DO MAN'S WORK

American Device For Using Solar Heat

EMPLOYED FOR COOKING

A device for making the sun do a part of man's work was shown to the American Association for the Advancement of Science at the beginning of its winter meeting in Pittsburgh.

It is a solar heat collector, which in twenty minutes develops temperatures in excess of 400deg. Fahrenheit. The inventor is the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, Dr. C. G. Abbot. The device can be used for ordinary cooking purposes. Dr. Abbot has been using it on Mount Wilson, California, for the generation of steam for power. It is hoped that ultimately it can be made to drive large steam engines at a practicable cost.

The apparatus employs a number of small mirrors fixed at right angles to the earth's axis and mounted on a frame which will turn on an axle parallel to the earth's axis. There are a number of tubes filled with black oil and protected from loss of heat by double vacuum jackets. These transmit the collected heat to a reservoir of oil, and into this reservoir ovens are inserted for cooking purposes, or a tubular boiler for generating steam.

A fine of $150, in default of three months' imprisonment, was imposed by Mr. A. W. G. H. Grantham upon Lam Choi, a 26-year-old earth cooler, who was charged at the Bowling Magistrate's court this morning with stealing a radiator cap from private car No. 811, belonging to Mr. A. Tate, of Katherin Buildings, Nathan Road.

HONG KONG'S NEW KING'S COUNSEL

MR. H. G. SHELDON TO TAKE SILK

BARRISTER AND SPORTSMAN

News was received in the Colony on Saturday, it is understood, that Mr. H. G. Sheldon, the well-known Hong Kong barrister, has been created a K.C.

Mr. Sheldon has been a resident of the Colony for the past eight years, having originally come out from Home in 1926. He has for some years been doing much of the leading work at the local Bar, perhaps the most famous of the cases in which he was engaged being that of Cheng Kwok-yau, the wealthy young Chinese from Malaya who was convicted of abducting the murder of a rival in love.

Mr. Sheldon, who takes a keen interest in nearly all forms of sport, is a Steward of the Hong Kong Jockey Club and often officiates as referee at local boxing contests.

NEW TERRITORIES MURDER CHARGE

Shopkeeper Killed In Armed Raid

ACCUSED IN HOSPITAL

The charge against Wong Fat, a 27-year-old unemployed seaman, of murdering Wong Fuk, a shopkeeper, at Chak Lu Wu Village, Sai Kung, New Territories, last Wednesday evening, was mentioned before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning.

It will be remembered that five or six men armed with choppers raided Wong Fuk's shop, and that Wong Fuk, who offered a spirited resistance, was killed.

On the application of Inspector A. N. Elston, who said that accused is at present in hospital, suffering from boils, the case was remanded.

CABMAN'S FUNERAL

Wish For Horses Could Not Be Gratified

Mr. Jonah Spree, of Rochester, Kent, who recently died, was a cabman for more than 60 years, and it was his wish that a horse-drawn hearse should carry him to his last resting place.

But when he was buried on Thursday his coffin had to be carried in a motor-hearse. The necessary horses, it is stated, could not be hired there.

Mr. Spree drove a cab from the age of 14, until a few years ago he was Rochester's last "cobby." He once drove the King when he was Prince George, stationed in the Thrush at Chatham.

CAR ROAD ROUND BERLIN

To Have 150 Bridges

BY-PASS FOR IMPORTANT CENTRES

A new motor road is to be constructed right round Berlin to act as a by-pass for traffic to other important centres. It will be about 125 miles long, and will be 15 to 20 miles from the centre of the city.

Potsdam and Kaputh to the South-west, Konigsbrunn to the south-east, and Frohnau to the north-west will be included within its radius.

In the construction of the highway about 150 bridges will have to be built, mainly as viaducts half a mile long to cross the underground railway lines, roads and canals which radiate from Berlin. A special problem is provided by the lakes which surround the capital.

PROBING SECRETS OF SPACE

Giant Mount Wilson Telescope

ASTRONOMERS PROMISE YET GREATER WONDERS

When the wonderful new Mount Wilson telescope, with its 200-inch mirror, comes into use, the moon will appear to be twenty-four miles from the earth, and we shall be able to pick out some of its smallest geographical details. The new giant will cost $1,000,000 and marks an epoch, as well as setting a limit to the possible size of the telescope. For it is not regarded as practicable to make a mirror more than 200 inches in diameter.

Already, however, and long before the giant is ready to be brought into use, new methods of star-gazing are under discussion which will give astronomers results equal to those obtainable with a 3,000-inch mirror! An important job will be found for the photo-electric cell. This will pick up light from the stars, which can be magnified in the same way as a radio signal. Thus the observatory may have a giant screen onto which will be projected an enlargement of whatever is picked up by the telescope.

Then we should get so close to the secrets of Mars as an aviator flying over its mysterious surface.

CHRISTMAS BABY ARRIVALS AT BRITISH ZOOS

A llama was born at Whipsnade Zoo, and a camel at Regent's Park on Christmas Day. The camel has been named "Noel." A Zoo official told a reporter that the camel is of the Arabian, one-humped variety. "It is not the first camel that has been born at the Gardens, although such an event is a rare occurrence."

To-day's Short Story.

ON NEW LINES

By A. P.
Garland

GEORGE SLIMP, a plump, sleek, bald-headed man of sixty, was really Chungby and Slimp, merchant tailors, of Savile-row, a household phrase in most of the noted clubs around the Pall Mall area. Indeed, it was reckoned that on the occasion of a theatrical first night, an Eton-Harrow cricket match, a fashionable divorce case, or an exclusive bankruptcy, two-fifths of the males prominent in the show were encased in clothes bearing the Chungby and Slimp label.

Yet George himself was not content.

"I have," he once told a friend, "a large and growing list of illustrious debtors. Charming people one and all. But I regret to add that many of them will not realize that sordid cash is, or should be, an important component of our transactions. Thus, when I send in a bill to some of them they take no notice of it, except to come in and order more clothes. Any order, except a postal order, seems to satisfy them."

"For example, Lord Huffy de Huffy made his last payment to me in 1927, when he backed a gifted animal named Call Boy to win the Derby. Evidently paralysed by this liberality, he has never repented the gesture, though, if I remember rightly, thirty-five suits and nine pairs of jodhpurs have been supplied to his order since then.

"The situation is both delicate and difficult. I dare not use the law for collecting overdue accounts: my other clients would stampede. Yet sending an ordinary statement has no more result with some of them than if I sent them a birthday card."

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "Mrs. Biggin's Fur Coat," by Bessie Le Pla.

"I wish I could discover a means of inducing such people to break their lifelong habit of never paying their tailor. It would mean a fuller, richer life for me."

At last a paragraph in an austere Sunday newspaper gave him the idea he sought. The paragraph read as follows:

It is announced that in Turkey a certain tax-collector has been sending out his demand notes in verse. The result is that only one man in his district has failed to pay up.

George stared awe-stricken at the words. Could it be true? Had a use been found for poetry at last? To induce procrastinating clients to pay up? If so, wasn't there a hint in it for him? He thought the matter over.

A few days later the Hon. Gussie Darb received a letter bearing the chastely printed heading of Chungby and Slimp. Beneath it was this: "Honoured Sir, we beg to state that your account up to date is $113-6-8."

The matter very humbly we mention.

"We merely draw your attention. Now Gussie had nearly won a prize at Eton for a poem, and he had written love-verses to a sprightly damsel of the Russian Ballet, so that he was somewhat of a purist on the subject of prosody. As a result, the foregoing doggerel pained him mightily.

Half an hour after receiving it he was in the inner sanctum of Chungby and Slimp's.

"Look here, Slimp," said he abruptly. "About that tripe you've just sent me—"

"I'm sorry, Mr. Darb," said George, "if you thought it impertinent on our part, but—"

"Impertinent my elbow!" was the nobleman's reply. "It's positively criminal. The rotten thing won't scan. Listen here."

He repeated the verse dramatically, giving each word its correct accent.

"Isn't it poisonous, Slimp?" he asked.

"Somehow," replied George, "it does not run as smoothly as it ought."

"Not by yards," said Gussie. "Look at the hiatus in the second line between 'account' and 'up to date'."

George could not tell a hiatus from a Hottentot, but he nodded reluctantly.

"I'm sorry, sir," said he. "It was done in rather a hurry."

"No excuse at all, man," said the other. "Your first line of trochees is all right, but after that you go to pieces. Now sit down and I'll show you. I've a quarter of an hour to spare."

The Lesson

George did as he was told, and soon Gussie was explaining to him the mysteries of metre and the meaning of iambs, spondees, and the like.

The tailor proved an apt pupil, and Gussie grew so absorbed in his congenial task that over half an hour had passed before he looked at his watch.

"Good lord!" said he then. "I've missed my appointment. Still, it doesn't matter, so long as you keep that in mind all I've explained to you."

"Now," he went on, "tell me, what's an anapest?"

"Two shorts and a long," answered George promptly.

"And a spondee?"

"Two longs."

"That's topping," said Gussie. "Now give a copy of Gaddie's 'Trochees' and a copy of 'The Administration of Sanatogen' to the tailor."

"Meet Respiroids' oldest enthusiast, McAngus McManus McGroat, who says, 'I've a mind to me Bronchial Tubes, So take 'Respiroids for the Throat.'"

For cough, asthma, bronchitis, and throat and chest troubles generally, also for the speedy relief of colds, use Respiroids, the new inhalant lozenges.

Respiroids, dissolving slowly in the mouth, release aromatic curative vapours which, circulating through the whole respiratory system, soothe the inflamed membranes, break up phlegm, ease the breathing, destroy the germs. Thus you breathe-in the cure with

Here is Health

"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from languor, a gain of strength and activity and alertness of mind."

written Dr. G. L. Wharton.

This is the opinion that medical men have of Sanatogen and when it is remembered that more than 25,000 physicians have written about the gratifying results they have obtained with Sanatogen, it becomes evident that you can trust this really exceptional tonic to help you, too.

Prof. Mann, formerly of Oxford University, explained the reason for the wonderful influence of Sanatogen on health in the following words:

"A building-up process goes on in the nerves after the administration of Sanatogen."

Start improving your health to-day. Take Sanatogen, and notice how fatigue and nervousness disappear. Take Sanatogen, and in a few weeks you will feel and look better than you have done for years. Follow the advice of these physicians and enjoy once more that sense of youthful health.

"Thank you so much, Mr. Darb," said George. "I'm indeed very grateful to you. I hope that the next communication I have the honour to make to you will meet with your approval."

A month later came George's next effort:

Honoured Sir, upon my books I see
A small account that's due from you to me;
One-twenty-two pounds, fifteen shillings I make it—

You'd like to pay me something off, I take it.

On receipt of this Gussie hurried to the telephone.

"That's better, Slimp," said he. "Iambic pentameter is more up your street than a ballad measure."

"You like it?" said George gratefully.

"Oh, you're getting on. But how the Hades did you run up my bill to one-twenty-two-fifteen?"

"This way, sir. That last morning suit of yours was nine guineas. And the previous account was one-one-three-six-and-eight. It brought the total up to one-two-two-fifteen-and-eight. But the inclusion of the eight-pence in the verse would have made two redundant syllables in the line. So with great reluctance I cut it out."

"Selling me eightpence. It's an ill wind, Slimp—I've written reams of near-poetry, but this is the first time poetry has ever paid me a dividend. Right-on, Slimp. Carry on the work and stick to Cuddley's best-seller."

"Yes, sir. I'm giving it the closest attention."

"That's the stuff. And one thing more. You'll find Old Man Brown a good model for making difficult rhymes. He put across some snorters in his time."

"Browning you said, sir?" answered George. "I'll take a note of it, and I'm much obliged."

"Very well. And, by the way, Slimp, get out some patterns of woolly cloth for a warm overcoat for flying. I'm going to Sweden next week."

"Yes, sir."

Gussie spent a month in Sweden, and when he returned he found that he was in need of a new evening-dress suit.

When he was ushered into the familiar inner room, he found the foreman-cutter waiting to receive him.

"Where's Slimp?" he asked.

"I'm sorry, sir," was the reply, "but Mr. Slimp has not come up to town to-day. Anything I can do, sir."

Gussie stated what he wanted and soon he was studying patterns of cloth.

"I rather hoped to see Slimp himself," he told the deputy.

"He will be here to-morrow," explained the latter. "He has decided to come to town only once a week in future. He's too busy."

"Busy? What at?"

"Writing poems, sir. Mr. Slimp told me that he had discovered an unexpected vein of poetry within him and that he was going to develop it."

"Go on. Slimp staggering up Parnassus. It beats the band."

"Yes, sir. Perhaps you would like to see the latest effort of his pen," said the other. And he handed Gussie a paper on which was typed the following:

The bill herewith unto you, sir,

I send,
Trusting my importunity will not offend.

Three years ago a payment last you made—
Oh, deign unto this matter to attend.

"Good lord!" exclaimed Gussie, "he's gone Omar Khayyam. I'd better see him as soon as possible."

The next day he found Slimp waiting for him, but he was staggered at the change in appearance of the once most orthodox tailor.

"All you want, Slimp," said Gussie, "is a banjo and a ticket to Margate Sands. What's the idea? You can't run a tailor's shop in an outfit like that!"

George looked at him in dignified fashion.

"Mr. Darb," said he, "I am no longer a tailor; I am a poet. In my house at High Wycombe I have furnished an attic with a cheap bed, a deal table, and a few soap-box, where I may in the typical surroundings of the struggling poet meditate on the higher plane."

"And you write poetry?" asked Gussie.

"It is my one aim in life," was the reply. "Since you introduced me to Cuddley I have felt inflamed with a desire to shine among the poets. Indeed, I was very distressed to discover that poetry had been going on for so long, and that I had only heard of it yesterday, so to speak."

"But what about the business?" "Business?" repeated George with a gesture of distaste. "Did Homer think of business, or Petrarch, or Keats? I am giving up the business. I'm selling Chugby and Slimp."

"What? Selling it?"

"Yes, sir. As a going concern. Mullett, my foreman cutter, has been with me thirty-five years, man and boy. He can receive the clients as well as do the cutting out. So I am looking for somebody with capital to take over and run the business while I retire to cultivate the Muses."

"Let me look at your books," said Gussie.

"With pleasure."

The books were brought and Gussie went over them carefully.

"Look here," said he to George. "I'm going off to have a palaver with some friends. In a couple of hours I'll be back with an offer."

Actually he returned in little over an hour.

George looked up from a sheet of manuscript.

"Pardon me," said he, "but would you mind telling me if a poet's licence would entitle him to rhyme 'amour' with 'glamour'?"

"Only on a Christmas card or a memorial notice," answered Gussie. "Now listen. I can offer you $10,000 for the business, lock, stock and barrel. That includes the book-debts of $7,000, a lot of which you'll admit are no good. I'd mention my own, for example."

"$10,000 will satisfy me," said Slimp. "And the deal was made."

In the humble garret above his lovely residence George Slimp is just now writing the Epic of Flight. He hopes to complete the twelve cantos by 1935.

In Savile Row, as chairman of his syndicate, Gussie Darb is attending to the affairs of Chugby and Slimp. But when he sends out the firm's accounts he does not bother to couch his missives in winged words of rhyme. Plain prose satisfies him.

For example, here is his latest note to the Right Hon. the Earl of Bighy, whom he knew at Eton.

Dear Nobby,
You old cormorant, you owe us three hundred of the best. What about digging up a couple of hundred on account? T-t-t. See you in Carey-street—Gussie Darb.

THE END.

BOATSWAIN'S MATE
FOR 20 YEARS

Strange History of Woman Mariner

Taken from a leaf of the "Navy Chronicle" of 1897 is the following strange story:

"At the Public Offices, Queen's-square," it runs, "an old woman, generally known by the name of Tom Bowling, was lately brought before the magistrate for sleeping all night in the street, and was committed as a rogue and vagabond."

"She served as boatswain's mate on board a man-of-war for upwards of twenty years and had a pension from the Chatham Chest."

Arkansas' governor, J. M. Fretwell, stipulated that hunters should qualify for quail-shooting licenses by killing at least one hawk, the enemy of game. His daughter "Earnie" immediately qualified, as you see.

FLUCTUATIONS OF NEW YEAR'S DAY

Many Alterations
Of Calendar

INCOME TAX YEAR HAS SPECIAL DATE

In the early days of English history New Year's Day fell on December 25. William the Conqueror ordered it to be altered to January 1 because that was the day of his coronation, but a little while afterwards March 25 was chosen.

The Gregorian calendar of 1582 made January 1 New Year's Day in all Catholic countries. Germany, Denmark and Sweden accepted it in 1700, and England finally settled on January 1 in 1753.

New Year comes first to the Friendly Islands, which are over 12 hours ahead of Greenwich. Then the bells ring out across the world, following the path of the sun until at last the New Year reaches its final point—the islands of Samoa.

The Jewish New Year falls on September 23, and the beginning of the year 1935 to us is 5695 to them; the first year of their calendar corresponded to 3761 B. C. The Income Tax Year begins on April 6—and has done since an Act of Parliament in 1793.

Says Sir Raymond Unwin, the famous city designer:—"It is far less expensive to replace slum areas with clean, healthful living quarters than to run up staggering police, fire, and sanitation bills."

LOVE-MAKING AS IT ONCE WAS

Difficulties Under A
Puritan Regime

ORIGIN OF "BUNDLING"

Love may laugh at locksmiths, but a recent film has reminded us that love-making in America in the days of the Puritan Fathers was something of a precarious pastime. For they made a law declaring that no longer must men and maidens meet "in diverse places" without the knowledge of their parents. The young man who so offended was fined $5 for the first offence, $10 for the second, and was given a gaol sentence if he still insisted! "Bundling" was a custom of the time and grew out of the shortage of firewood in these days. How could a young man, courting a girl with the approval of her parents, pay her his attentions if economy made it necessary to let out the fire? Simple! They were both tied up in bundling bags with drawstrings at the neck and the knees—then put to bed, with a centre board with jagged edges down between them, and covered with the bed clothes.

But after a while the Puritans objected to this, and made it their duty to go around the houses to see whether "bundling" was still going on.

The word "flirting" was not used then. Courting couples were said to be "sparking."

QUEER OCCUPATION FOR UNEMPLOYED

Keeping Starlings From Going To Sleep

PAID HALF A DOLLAR
PER HOUR

Fifty unemployed men in Washington have just been given the strangest job in America. They have to keep starlings from going to sleep.

Every winter Washington suffers from a plague of starlings. They roost on Government buildings and in the tall trees near the grounds of the White House, the President's residence.

As every other method of driving them away has failed, the Government has engaged 50 unemployed men to rattle tins containing small stones.

The theory is that if the birds are prevented from sleeping they will leave.

The men are paid 1s. 8d. an hour to make the noise.

A dance will be held by the Kowloon Cricket Club this coming Saturday evening, and members and their friends are requested to give this dance their hearty support.

Like the "Wallingford" of fictional fame, John S. McGroarty, aged 73, the new California congressman, has a plan to make everybody rich. He is the sponsor of a bill to put into effect the so-called Townsend plan to pension everybody over 60 at U.S.$400 a month, and thus make it unnecessary for anybody to work, since everybody can live with "grandma and grandpa." It will cost only U.S. $7,000,000,000 a year, more money than there is in the country, but with everybody living with "grandma and grandpa" nobody will need money.

WALKED 50 MILES TO OLD HOME

Remarkable Journey
Of Lonesome Cat

A cat recently walked 50 miles home to Pontardawe, Swansea Valley, only to find that its mistress has left the house.

The cat was left by its owner, Mrs. C. G. Dahne, during the summer with friends at Pendine, Carmarthenshire.

Its old home is now occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Meredith, who are caring for it until Mrs. Dahne can come to claim it.

fought throughout the Great War, during which he was twice wounded and twice mentioned in dispatches. He also acted as extra A.D.C. to the Prince of Wales during his Colonial tour in 1901.

COLOURED SHIRTS IN POLITICS

Limited Choice Only
Now Remains

WHAT WILL THE NEXT BE?

Leaders of new political parties who decide to adopt a coloured shirt as their "badge" will have something of a job to decide on a distinctive colour, for there are few left, if all the movements in Europe are taken into consideration.

The Blackshirts of Italy need hardly be mentioned, while their brethren of the same coloured garment in this country are well in the news. The German 'Brownshirts' are the stalwarts who uphold the edicts of Herr Hitler in Germany, the Redshirts are a British body attached to the Independent Labour Party in this country. The Greyshirts are British anti-Fascists, the Blueshirts oppose Mr. De Valera in the Irish Free State. Austria claims the Greenshirt—it represents anti-Nazi principles.

Doubtless we shall soon have the Yellowshirts—though it is easy to see that there are few serviceable colours left!

THERE IS ALWAYS CREDULITY

Wild Claims Made By Pseudo-Baron

A man known as "Baron" Oscar M. Hartzell, who used to be a familiar figure in the West-end of London, has been arrested in Chicago and sentenced to ten years in a penitentiary.

He claims that he is the descendant of a son born of a secret marriage between Queen Elizabeth and Sir Francis Drake; that his inheritance, which includes the Crown Jewels of England, is being illegally kept from him by King George; add that he is heir to nine-tenths of North America, the whole of Devonshire, and 1,100 acres in the heart of London.

Hartzell has swindled thousands of humble people who have been financing him on the promise of an ultimate share in the spoils.

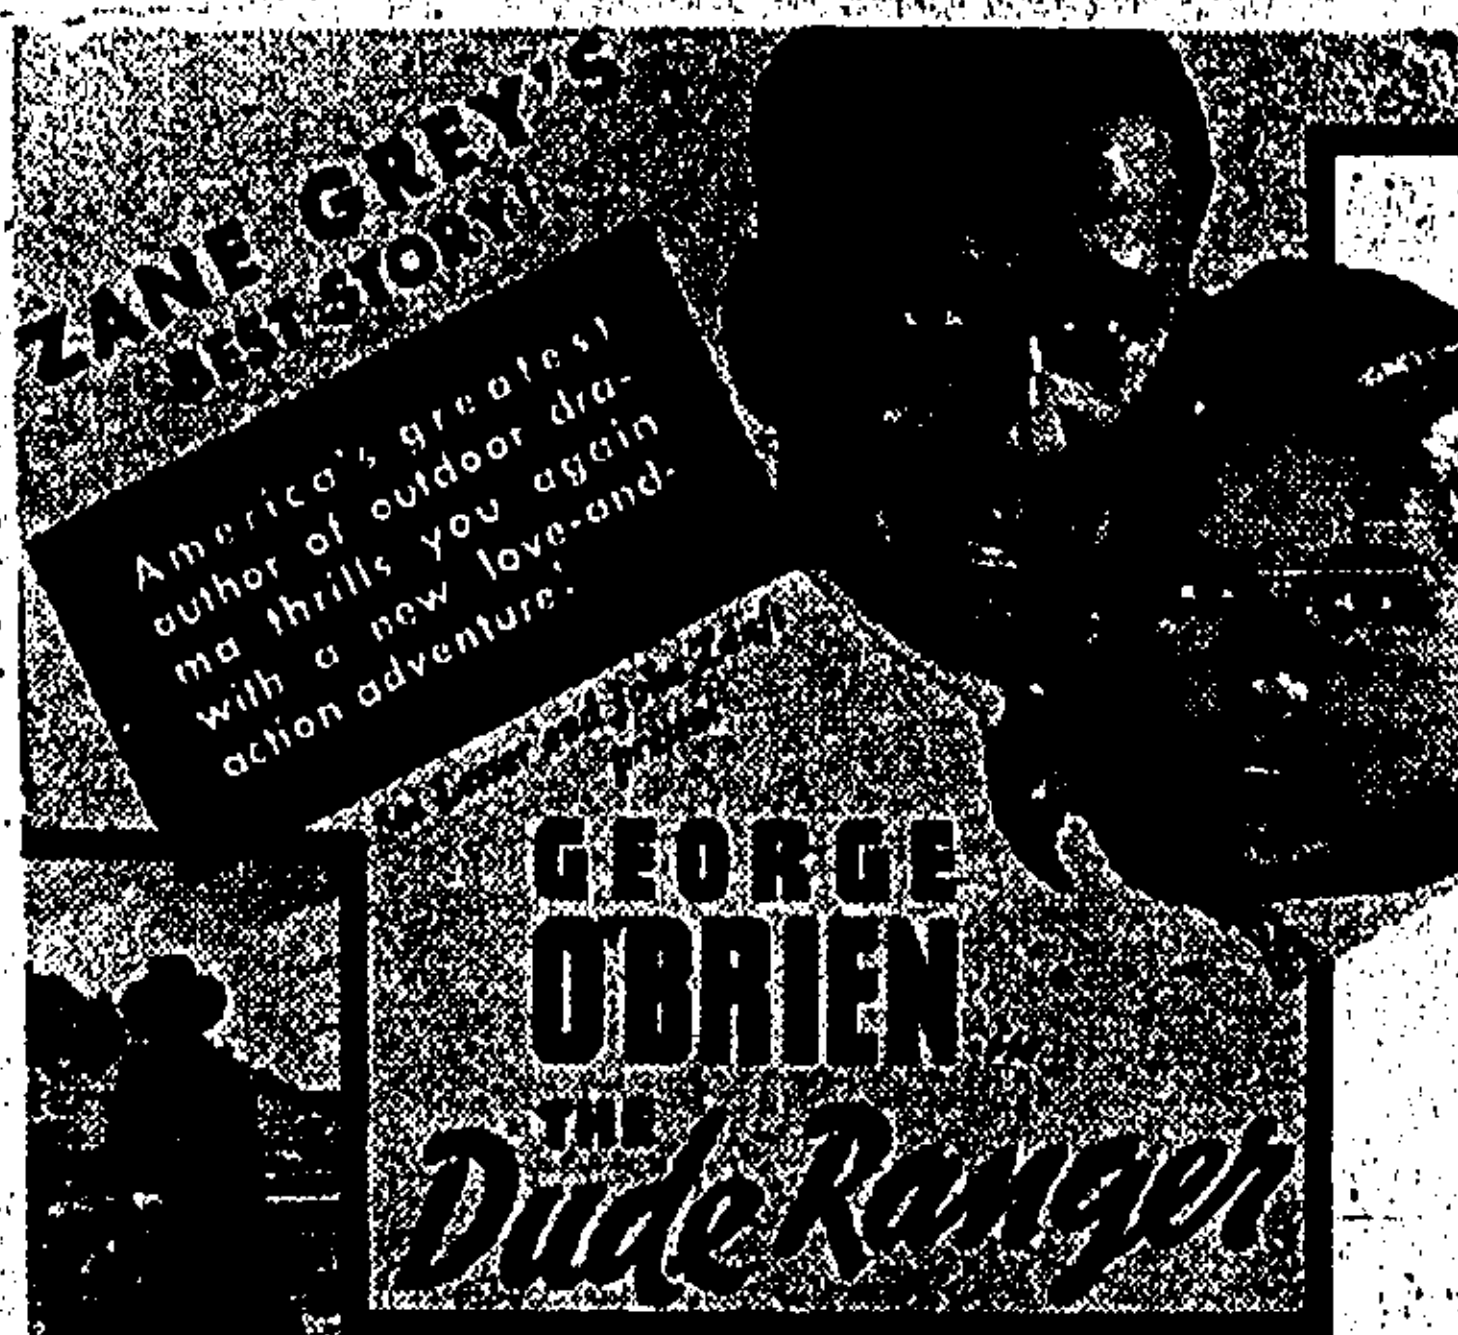

TOO-GENEROUS VICAR

The Vicar of Midhurst in Surrey is a generous man. Just before Christmas he hung a notice on his garden gate: "Tramps whose boots are done for can obtain a new pair here." Now all the tramps of England are converging on Midhurst, and the local constabulary have been called in to organise the queue outside the vicarage.

Romantic History Of Jockey Club

17 Wins In 26 Races
In addition, two ponies were trained in his stable, and each won a race, thus making 17 wins for the stable out of a total of 26 races run during the three days of the meeting. After that success, Sir Paul retired on his laurels.

Regarding stables, none has been a more consistent supporter of the Hong Kong Turf as that which was started almost at the commencement of racing in Hong Kong by Messrs. David and Joseph Jardine, brothers of Sir Robert Jardine, whose name appears in the records of 1850 and subsequent years as a successful owner and jockey.

In 1874 a representative of the firm for the first time raced under the name of John Peel, and the name was taken as a stable name in 1885. At the 1935 meeting we have John Peel's sub., Lincliden, entered.

Stronger Rider.
Mr. T. F. Hough was undoubtedly the strongest jockey that has ever been seen in Hong Kong or China, and it is no exaggeration to say that he won many races on ponies on which no other man riding at the time would have succeeded.

The racing careers of many famous riders in Hong Kong are far too lengthy to enumerate, but they will be long remembered. Messrs. G. C. Masters, G. W. Cresson, Morton Jones, Hart Buck, H. Sampson, John John Stone, "Chuck" Burkill, E. W. Crawford, Wakeford Cox, J. C. Cumming, "Tiny" Midwood, H. Seth, J. A. Hayes, E. Moller, and Vida.

The last decade in the history of the Hong Kong Jockey Club has been essentially one of progress, and there are many in the Colony to-day who can recall the disastrous race-course fire of 1918, which resulted in the building of the magnificent stands of to-day.

Mock Funeral.
Soon after Sir Henry Blake arrived in the Colony as Governor in 1902, an order was given that no gambling would be allowed on the race-course. In consequence the Club were forced to remove the totalisator and to close down on pari-mutuel betting also.

To force the Governor to rescind the order, a number of young bloods arranged a mock funeral, the coffin bearing the inscription, "In memoriam Hong Kong Races." Sir Henry, however, heard of the plot and sent his A.D.C. to make terms with the ring-leaders. He promised that betting should be allowed in future if the young bloods would abandon their plans for the "funeral."

In 1924 the extra meeting ceased to be called the Gymkhana Meeting and the term Extra Meeting, now in use, was adopted.

1934 Amendments
Regarding recent years there is no need for unnecessary comment, the most important events being the reduction of the betting from $5 to $2 during the latter part of last year due to the prevailing depression, and the return to the $5 figure after four meetings. The cash sweeps were also reduced to the $1 figure, which has since proved very popular. This year for the first time in the annals of the Hong Kong Jockey Club, the Jockey Club's big sweep is being run on the Derby, instead of on the Champions, and at a $1 denomination instead of $10.

Diana Hay, above, very nearly beat Trentbridge on Saturday.—(King's Studio).

DUNBAR STABLE MONOPOLY IN
CHALLENGE CUP SERIESCarry Off Trophy During Past Six Meetings.

The Challenge Cup, the second classic to-day, was instituted in 1859 and was won last year by Mr. Dunbar's Liberty Bay (Mr. Frost) for the second time in succession. Mrs. Dunbar's Sitting Bull (Mr. Hill) won the event in the four previous years. Liberty Bay is again favoured this year.

MR. DUNBAR LEADING OWNER

Last year Mr. Leo Frost, the 1933 champion jockey, set a precedent by concluding the Annual Race Meeting at the head of the jockeys' championship. In previous years a Shanghai rider had held the premier place.

The following were the standings after the five days last year:

L. G. Frost	1	2	3	Un
D. S. Li	11	4	2	25
Y. S. Chang	9	4	3	11
T. L. Wang	7	11	7	22
N. Deitz	6	1	6	23
A. J. P. Heard	5	5	6	20
F. Marshall	3	11	6	21
S. V. Sun	3	5	7	19
B. A. Proulx	3	1	4	31
E. O. Butler	2	2	1	26
S. W. Pan	2	1	6	15
H. P. Chanson	2	0	2	22
H. M. Phi	1	3	3	27
P. P. Botelho	1	1	1	28
G. A. Harriman	1	0	2	18
Yue Shun Wa	1	0	0	0

Shanghai riders Mr. L. Dunbar easily led the owners' list with 10 wins, as against Messrs. Kong Bros' five and Mr. Lan's four. Mrs. Pearce, Mr. Dynasty, and Mr. C.N.K. each secured three wins.

Mr. G. H. Potts' ponies, Mountain King in 1919, Allied King in 1920, and Invincible King in 1921.

Two Winners of To-day

Messrs. Hutchings, Masters, and Johnstone, have all recorded three wins, while Messrs. Ogle, G. W. Gresson, Maitland, Cox and McLean have ridden two winners.

Of the present batch of riders, Mr. V. V. Needa and Mr. C. A. Encarnacao are the only two who have previously won the Derby, the former winning in 1933 on Mrs. Pearce's Trentbridge, while the latter won on Mr. Ho Kom-tong's President Hall in 1929.

Mr. Kong, a leading owner, is here pictured leading in Belmont Star (Mr. Li) after the pony had won the Wong-Nel-Chong Stakes (second section) at the Valley on Saturday.—(King's Studio).

Mr. Dunbar's Mistake Bay fared disappointingly on Saturday. He was formerly favourite for the Derby.—(King's Studio).

HEROD FOR DERBY

The probable starters for the Derby are as follows:—

Mistake Bay. (Mr. L. G. Frost). On his running yesterday in the Trial Plate I think he will be lucky if he places.

Rousseau (Mr. V. V. Needa). Won the Maiden Stakes on Saturday. This pony has a very strong finish and certainly impressed the fans.

King's Jubilee (Mr. F. Marshall). Won the Trial Plate by a neck from Mistake Bay. Personally I do not think he will win the distance.

Rose Queen (Jockey Unknown). Won the Hopeful Stakes on Saturday by nearly three lengths. In my estimation it is a better pony than Rousseau. This pony will be the most probable starter in the Derby from Mr. Eu Tong Sen's stable in which case Mr. Needa will have the ride.

Soldier of Honour (Mr. S. Y. Sun). Did not start on Saturday, the explanation being that he was especially held over for the major classic to-day. If any pony will give Herod a run, this is the one. He won a very impressive 34 mile on Friday morning, finishing very strongly in 0.28.2.

Soldier of Victory (Mr. N. Deitz). Came second in the Hopeful Stakes on Saturday, but it is doubtful whether he will be in at the finish at all.

Ythan (Mr. P. P. Botelho). Came third in the Maiden Stakes, but I do not think he is in the same class as the former ponies.

Pacific Hall (Mr. C. Encarnacao). Was unplaced in the Maiden Stakes. In my opinion the distance did not suit him. I think he will do better in the Derby to-day. A very good outsider.

There will probably be some last minute changes, but I do not think these will affect the outstanding runners.

My selections for the Derby are: Mr. Hem's Herod (Mr. Davis) Mr. Li Shiu-pang's Soldier of Honour (Mr. Sun).

Mr. Eu Tong-sen's Rose Queen (Mr. Needa).
Outsider:—Mr. Ho Kom-tong's Pacific Hall (Mr. Encarnacao).
